PANEL & RECEPTION

Friday, September 16, 2016

Longwood University College of Business & Economics

All gifts will support scholarships and student opportunities in the College of Business and Economics.

BECOME A SPONSOR

SUPPORT FUTURE LEADERS IN BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

On September 16, 2016 the College of Business and Economics will host a panel discussion of how the incoming presidential administration and citizens can advance cyber security.

Following the panel will be an invitation-only reception with industry leaders, an open bar, and heavy hors d'oeuvres to enjoy.

Did you know that it takes a $25,000 endowed gift to establish one annual $1,000 scholarship?

$1,000 makes a difference to our students and could cover some of the following expenses:

Textbooks for one academic year

Two credit hours at Longwood University

Dining Hall Meals for a semester

One two-credit internship

LONGWOOD UNIVERSITY

The Cyber Security Summit is a precursor to the much anticipated Vice Presidential Debate to be held at Longwood University on October 4, 2016.

Two Virginia colleges have previously hosted presidential debates; William & Mary in 1976 and University of Richmond in 1992. Both attribute hosting the presidential debates as major factors that launched their institutions into the national and international spotlights.
